Circumstances: Jackson Alexander Miller left home depressed and anxious after reducing his medications. He drove to the Golden Gate Bridge & left all of his belongings in the car. Bridge authorities confirmed there were no jumps that weekend and videos showed Jackson going out of the parking lot and disappearing out of view. Four days later there were 4 sightings of Jackson within 3 blocks in San Francisco that convinced Jackson's parents he was alive but not well. There have been numerous leads from people who think they have seen Jackson in San Francisco but none confirmed because police didn't respond in time or the lead came too late or without enough detail to pursue. Although Jackson was last seen in San Francisco, his home Sheriff Dept. manages his case. His family begs for help from the public, as it is most likely he will be located due to recognition or an encounter. If seen, please take a photo with your cell phone & call police right away.
